

Products Liability

Defending products across industries

Our team of more than 150 products liability attorneys has significant experience defending companies in high-stakes products liability litigation.

We have a proven track record defending mass torts, class actions, and personal injury cases around the country. And we have a deep understanding of the medical, scientific, and technological issues in pharmaceutical, medical device, automotive, and consumer and mechanical products cases.

The complex nature of products liability cases requires a legal team with the capability to handle matters from inception to the final phases. We have tried hundreds of cases in some of the most difficult jurisdictions in the country and have deep experience handling multidistrict litigation, mass torts, class actions, catastrophic injury, and death cases. Whether our clients face government investigations, inquiries from regulatory bodies, or high-stakes litigation, we help protect your company and your products.

We represent national corporations that run the gamut of industries. We counsel several Fortune 500 companies in the pharmaceutical and medical devices space, and we represent some of the world's largest automotive manufacturers. Our consumer and mechanical clients' products range from heavy equipment to outdoor recreational products.

We are known for our extensive product knowledge and for our ability to formulate strategies from complex scientific and medical evidence, presented in a compelling manner to juries in the courtroom. Our team draws on our wide network of expert witnesses across disciplines, including physicians and researchers, biomechanical engineers, accident reconstructionists, economists, and vocational rehabilitation experts. When developing opposing expert strategies, we investigate and examine opposing experts, their backgrounds, qualifications, and the reliability of their work. Our attorneys have extensive experience in developing the testimony of company employee witnesses and corporate representatives, and we work with our clients to educate their witnesses to be effective communicators.

Products Liability Strengths

[Class Action & Multi-
Claim Litigation](#)

[Products Liability -
Automotive](#)

[Products Liability -
Consumer &
Mechanical](#)

[Products Liability -
Pharmaceuticals &
Medical Devices](#)

Toxic Torts/Asbestos

We strongly believe in the value of diversity and have a deep and diverse bench of first-chair trial attorneys who can relate to juries in every part of the country. Our mass tort clients value our ability to deploy multiple diverse trial teams simultaneously around the country. We also have cultivated a reputation for being highly effective and collaborative in virtual law firm scenarios and are frequently asked to co-try cases with other large national firms.

Why Nelson Mullins?

- Seasoned first-chair products liability lawyers across the country
- Nationally recognized team includes former in-house counsel and experienced trial attorneys
- Experience leading MDLs as national, regional, and coordinating counsel
- Record of obtaining significant victories in plaintiff-friendly jurisdictions
- Established network of experts in multiple disciplines
- Wins include jury verdicts, dismissals on the pleadings, certification denials, and summary judgments
- In-house technology and experts to manage significant volumes of data and documents in a way that leverages efficiency from the beginning of matters to resolution