

Warranty Litigation

Defending motor vehicle manufacturers & distributors

When you need help

- developing efficient litigation strategies to minimize risk in mass tort, class actions, and serial litigation
- defending cases involving the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act, the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, or fraud, concealment, or false advertising claims
- working to secure defense verdicts and summary judgments in state and federal court our experienced team can assist.

We have represented many of the world's top motor vehicle manufacturers and distributors in all classifications of warranty litigation and recalls involving engine systems, transmissions, hybrid electric motors, electrical systems, and other components.

Our industry team is focused on warranty litigation and has the experience and resources to handle high stakes litigation. As plaintiffs continue to aggressively pursue litigation and the volume of lawsuits increases, our team offers efficient strategies to clients in order to defend mass torts, class actions, and serial litigation.

Our attorneys have served as national coordinating counsel, managing mass actions around the country in state and federal courts. Our unique approach to warranty litigation employs mass tort principles to manage the plethora of lawsuits filed by highly aggressive plaintiff's lawyers. By taking a broader standpoint, we are able to develop robust technical defenses to defend clients efficiently.

Whether the lawsuit involves alleged fraud, the Song-Beverly Consumer Warranty Act, the Consumer Legal Remedies Act, or fraud, concealment, or false advertising claims, we are able to evaluate cases early and determine the best course of action as we work to secure defense verdicts and summary judgments.
